Designing Your Website to Use Less Energy: Green Energy Websites Dale Stubbart, Designing Your Website to Use Less Energy explores simple changes you can make to your website that will cause it to use less energy. We don't often think about the amount of power being used to surf the Internet, but it's quite a lot. If all websites were designed to use less energy, we could save a lot of energy. One of the most important considerations when designing a website to use less energy is to make it load quickly. Part of that depends on where your website sits - your web host. Part of that depends on your images. Part depends on ads. Part depends on how simply your website is coded. In fact, Google will downgrade your web page in its search algorithm if your web page doesn't load quickly. Designing Your Website to Use Less Energy covers choosing a web host, performance, plug-ins and services, making your own plug-in, energy-saving colors, and printing. Performance covers lessening the impact of images, Javascript, CSS, photo frameworks, and database queries, plus other tricks you can use to make your page load faster. If you're a big corporation, there are tools from Google, Facebook, and Twitter you can use. If you're not a large corporation and don't have a lot of time, this audiobook will help you get your website loading faster and will help you save energy. The more users you have who browse your website, the more energy you'll save. Listening ease: medium. Listening level: eighth grade. Maturity: general audience.

Gangwar,2023-02-14 Creating and sharing high-quality media content is at the heart of content marketing, which aims to increase traffic, leads, conversions, and repeat business. Content marketing, in contrast to traditional forms of advertising, focuses on fostering favourable brand associations by regularly publishing informative and entertaining material that is of genuine value to the target audience. Websites, podcasts, social media, blogs, applications, print publications, press releases, and a variety of other mediums all contribute to modern content marketing. With the help of the content marketing, your company may become recognized as an authority in your field. Your credibility as a subject matter expert will rise in direct proportion to the amount of useful information you provide to your audience. When people like what you've written, they're more likely to forward it along to others online, which ultimately increases site traffic. To a larger extent, your content's value will determine how many people visit your site. In the long run, this might help you attract more potential buyers who may become paying customers. Relationship development is just as important as sales when using content marketing. Customers will develop confidence and loyalty in you as a business partner if you consistently provide high-quality material that contributes to their success.
